Session 3

1997 Asian Financial Crisis: Lessons Learned and Not Learned?

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom A)

- Starting from the latter half of 2014, emerging markets such as Thailand, Malaysia and Indonesia have again suffered from capital outflows and currency depreciation, which is reminiscent of the Asian Financial Storm 20 years ago.
- The crisis, however, was not repeated. Emerging markets in Asia show greater resilience than expected. Which lessons have they drawn from the crisis 20 years ago to build such resilience?
- Are there lessons not learned?

Moderator

- Andrew BROWNE, Senior Correspondent and Columnist, The Wall Street Journal

Session 4

Bring Craftsmanship back to Manufacturing

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom B)

- Manufacturing is not just about mass production. It is the commitment to craftsmanship that distinguishes Germany and Japan from their peers. As the Factor of the World, China is rethinking what is lacking in its manufacturing power amid increasing calls for renewed emphasis on craftsmanship.
- Why does craftsmanship matter in modern factories?
- Craftsmanship has been part of the Chinese tradition. Why is it lost in the industrialization drive?
- What makes a modern "craftsman"? What can be learned from the education and practice of Germany and Japan?

Moderator

16:00 - 18:00

Media Leaders Roundtable 1

New Prospects for Asian Media Cooperation

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom D)

- Traditional media in Asia did not fully reflect the reality and vitality of this continent. However, as reform and changes are sweeping across this part of the world, traditional journalism is being transformed, and there is a growing consensus on the concept of an Asian community of shared destiny. Within such a context, the future of Asia is connected to the measures taken by Asian media to have their voices heard in the international community, recount the stories of Asia, and show the world the picture of this continent in an impartial, comprehensive manner through mutual cooperation.
- The Roundtable will invite over 20 media leaders from dozens of countries along the “Belt and Road” to discuss the new prospects for Asian media cooperation in a rational and pragmatic way.

Moderator

- WANG Lu, China Radio International

Chair

- WANG Gengnian, President & Editor in Chief, China Radio International and China International Broadcasting Network

16:30 - 17:00

Coffee break

16:30 - 18:30

Private Sector Roundtable 2

Why the Private Investment Subdued?

(ICC, Level 1, Peacock 1)

(Invitation Only)

- Growth of investment by private enterprises, a key economic driver, continues to drop recently, slowing down to an alarming point that cannot be ignored. Driven by multiple factors, more and more Chinese enterprises were embarking on the cause of going global in 2016, and outbound investment by private enterprises also showed an explosive growth along with such “tailwind”. However, the contraction associated with the over-capacity reduction and supply side structural reform in the Chinese economy, and a rising “headwind” of de-globalization will adversely affect investment. Therefore, it is necessary to inspire new drivers to change the situation and rebuild the momentum of investment.
- How to look at and respond to the sustaining weak private investment?

- How to leverage various drivers - the Belt and Road, international capacity cooperation, etc. to regain confidence in investment and achieve a leap-forward upgrade?
- Will cross-border investment by private enterprises accelerate or slow down?
- How to prevent risks and expand global business footprint?

Panelists

- BO Lianming, President, TCL

- ZHANG Yaqin, President, Baidu

17:00 - 18:15

Session 6

Surviving the Capital Crunch

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom B)

- "Internet plus" startups had witnessed exponential growth driven by enthusiastic venture capital before plummeting in the latter half of 2015. Isn't this strange given ample liquidity worldwide?
- Is the so-called "capital crunch" felt across the spectrum, or just for a few niche sectors such as O2O in life services? And why?
- Some argue that it is more a cooling down and returning to normal on the part of investors, which is actually a good thing for the long-term sustainable growth of the sector. Without the fanfare, which niche sectors and what kind of startups will win out?

Moderator

- LU Binbin, Founder, Binbin Talk Show

Asset Securitization: the Good and Bad

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom A)

- Debt/equity swap was first introduced into China in 1998 as part of the SOE reform. It again came up in the debate and remarks of decision makers recently as China struggles to deleverage, together

- with options such as loan securitization, CDS, etc.
- Which lessons should China learn from the subprime crisis in asset securitization?
- How much regulation should be applied to the growing derivatives market, and what form should it take?
- Can a country's financial institutions gain the benefits of an active derivatives markets without creating potentially destabilizing risks for the institutions and for the nation as a whole?

MNC China CEO Roundtable 4

Global Competition for Capital: Re-defining the Chinese Market

(ICC, Level 1, Peacock 1)

(Invitation Only)

- Overview: America's economy is strengthening and China's growth is stabilizing. But multinational companies cannot afford to relax. They face ever intensifying competition from local rivals in emerging economies, and newly unpredictable terms of trade with the United States. The Trump administration is promising to lighten regulation and lower taxes on companies at home, even as it flirts with protectionist measures against companies abroad. The aim is to make it easier for capital to prosper in America and harder for it to leave.
- What will this mean for emerging markets in the global fight for capital? And how should multinational companies respond? Will they be tempted to "tariff-hop": building American plants to serve American customers? Or should they wait and see whether the protectionist bark is worse than its bite? Are multinationals in China doubly challenged, facing both tougher access to America's market and tougher competition for China's consumers? The competition for capital has always been fierce. But the rules of the game have rarely been so unsettled.

10:45 - 12:00 Session 11

Capital and Control

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom B)

- Global economy is very uncertain. Business confidence is fragile. Liquidity is ample. All these combine to make volatile capital flow the “new normal”, which in turn trigger financial market volatility in Asian and emerging economies. Why are these economies so prone to such volatility? What homework do they need so as to be better prepared?
- Is there a role for global, multilateral or bilateral coordination? Are there good examples?
- Capital control and the Tobin Tax

Moderator

- Henny SENDER, Chief Correspondent, International Finance, Financial Times

Session 12

The Rise of Live Streaming

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom D)

- The live video streaming industry has experienced booming growth in the past two years as dozens of video and social media sites scrambled to add the updated capabilities to existing services. Credit Suisse Group analysts estimate the industry could top US$5 billion by the end of 2017, driven by cheap bandwidth and a growing population of young mobile users in China. Why the popularity and rise of live streaming all of a sudden?
- Market potential and business model
- Regulatory environment
- which contents is King?

Session 13

Time for Fiscal Policy, Again?

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom A)

- For years, monetary policy has been the center stage of saving the world economy and proven increasingly ineffective though central bankers are increasingly bolder. G20 agreed in Hangzhou that monetary policy alone won't work. Fiscal policy must step in in tandem, in time.

- Structural reforms are hard. Monetary policies are over-used. Can fiscal policies rekindle growth as expected?
- What kind of taxation and expenditure policies are most effective?
- How large is the fiscal space available?

13:30 - 14:45

Session 14

Redesigning Financial Regulation: Protecting the Whole

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom B)

- The global financial crisis demonstrated that traditional regulation, often called microprudential, is insufficient to guarantee the health of the financial system as a whole. Keeping individual financial institutions sound is not enough. A broader approach is needed to safeguard the financial system.
- Which reforms have advanced economies taken in regulatory approach and framework after the crisis?
- Comparison of the UK, the US and Australian models
- How is China going to reform its financial regulatory system?

Moderator

- Kenneth HITCHNER, President of Asia Pacific Ex-Japan, Member of the Management Committee, Goldman Sachs

15:15 - 16:30

Session 18

Big Data: The Value for CEOs

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom C)

- There is no doubting the value of data. Jack Ma said his Alibaba is not a retail company, but rather a data company that does e-Commerce and logistics to collect data.
- The key, however, is how to get value from data. Most companies are just at a loss in the face of a sea of numbers, figures, charts and data.
- Are there successful commercial cases (rare, undoubtedly) that could enlighten the puzzled CEOs?

Labor Market Reform: Tough, But a Must-Do

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom B)

- Labor market is the hard part of structural reform. Rigidity and excessive generosity have inhibited vigor and resilience of the economy. Meaningful changes, however, may lose votes and trigger unrest.
- Starting from 2012, China began to see decline of working-age population, quickened ageing, drastic rise of wages and outflow of manufacturing. Its controversial labor law is blamed for hurting flexibility of the labor market.
- Which reforms are tough but necessary?

Cross-Straits CEO Roundtable 16

New Situation, New Opportunities and New Cooperation: opening-up of the Mainland and Cross-Straits Economic Cooperation

(Dongyu Island Hotel, Hesheng Ballroom)

- The world economy is currently at its seven-year low with global trade growth slower than economic growth. Traditional economy growth engine slows down as the momentum of world economy shifts. Although new technologies emerge, new economic growth point has not been found.
- The mainland of China has attracted over $1.7 trillion overseas capital and invested abroad over $1.2 trillion cumulatively since its reform and opening-up. In the aftermath of international financial crisis, the Mainland's annual average contribution to world economic growth accounts for more than 30%. The Mainland not only benefits from but also contributes to economic globalization. The Mainland's fast economic growth provides a strong and consistent driving force to sustain stability and growth of global economy, while its joint development with other countries and regions makes world economy more balanced. The Mainland's development is an opportunity to the world.
- Nowadays, the Mainland has been deeply integrated into the world economy as new trends emerge in cross-border investment and industrial transfer in a global context. In a released State Council document, the Mainland has announced 20 measures to further expand its opening-up, facilitate environment for fair competition, and attract more foreign investment. How can entrepreneurs from Taiwan grasp this opportunity for stronger growth?
- As cross-Straits relations are becoming increasingly grave and complex, how can we overcome difficulties and advance economic cooperation across the Straits so as to bring more benefits to compatriots on both sides?

Co-Chairs

- The Mainland: CHEN Deming, President of Association for Relations across the Taiwan Straits
- Taiwan: CHIEN Fredrick F., Senior Advisor, Cross-Straits Common Market Foundation

FDI: Greenfield, or M&A?

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom A)

- In 2015, for the first time, developing countries overtook developed countries as the largest source of FDI globally. What are the causes and global implications of this reversal?
- Statistics show that most of the FDI growth came from M&A deals during the year. Greenfield investments had stagnated. Most M&A deals happened in advanced markets, not emerging ones as in the past. Why?

- Given the current economic sluggishness, which regions and industries are most appealing to FDI?
- As a rising global investor, what can China learn from history lessons/experiences of other countries?

Defining the Sharing Economy

(ICC, Level 1, Dong Yu Grand Ballroom B)

- The controversy over car hailing regulation has again stirred the debate over the sharing economy. The sharing economy, regulators say, is about sharing idle resources with no negative implications for existing industries. Pareto Optimality rules.
- Do we have consensus on what the sharing economy should be like? What are the criteria? Who is qualified enough to make the definition?
- What does the future hold for the sharing economy?
